

ever almost completely suspended for. In the spring of 1953, Farley Mowat returned to Europe to retrace his wartime footsteps and search for peace. He returned to England and France - countries that in 1953, Farley Mowat, a Canadian infantryman during World War II, returned to Europe, a place he only knew during the ravages of wartime. Together with his