At least, I've a grandfather Henry said to Nancy; but O, a grandfather! she mocked him. But he lives in a house with electric light, doesn't he? Not in a caravan under the moon. Still, can he tell us what this is? She picked up the last card, that numbered nought, and exhibited it. It might have needed some explanation, for it was obscure enough. It was painted with the figure of a young man, clothed in an outlandish dress of four striped colours—black and grey and silver and red; his legs and feet and arms and hands were bare, and he had over one shoulder a staff, carved into serpentine curves, that carried a round bag, not unlike the balls with which the juggler played.

2 quotes from The Greater Trumps: Nothing was certain, but everything was safe - that was part of the mystery of Love. One that came later than the others and (if my perceptions were correct) did not stay in print long, was The Greater Trumps.
