

The Unmasking: An Emilie Richards Classic Romance

In this contemporary classic romance from bestselling womens fiction author Emilie Richards, a young woman finds she can run, but even a talented mask maker cant always hide. Bethany Walker loves her new life in the New Orleans French Quarter with her young daughter Abby and Lifes Illusions, the shop where she sells her extraordinary feathered masks. Only memories of Abbys father Justin Dumontier, the man who vanished from her life before her daughters birth, cast shadows over Louisianas bright sunshine. Now one morning as carnival season begins and her work load increases, Bethany glances up to find Justin gazing at her. Hiding herself and the child he doesnt know about is no longer an option. She may have kept their baby a secret, but four-year-old Abby is all too clearly his. Justin is furious that Bethany has hidden his daughter, but reluctantly, he begins to understand. Their romance was brief and passionate, but Justin kept his feelings locked deep inside him until Bethany was gone without a trace. Now she is no longer an innocent college student, reaching out for his love, but an independent woman who has made a life for herself and their child with hard work and sacrifice. Bethany wants nothing material from wealthy Justin, and Justin doesnt know how to give his heart. Fate has reunited them, but so much stands between them still. Like one of Bethanys masks, will the painful events that separated them forever disguise what they feel? Or will they at last find a way to reveal what each of them needs most? Mardi Gras day, a time to fling away inhibitions, is fast approaching. During carnival season in New Orleans, almost anything seems possible. Even love.
